

Net Zero for Churt

Churt News in Nature December 2021

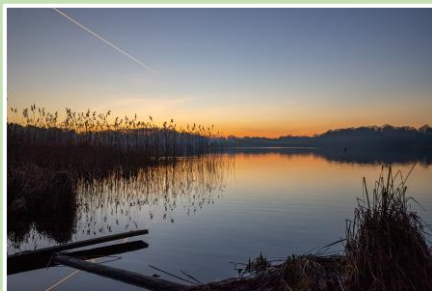

Published by Churt Environment Working Group

See www.churtzero.org for more news

Summer is over!

The visitors have gone, leaving both Frensham Ponds.....

...just for web-footed residents and local walkers

No room at the inn?

but this 'bug inn' at the Therapy Garden in Normandy welcomes most kinds of invertebrate visitors.

Stunning snowflakes

caught in the long grass at end November

Climate change?

The roses at the Village Hall stayed in bloom late – whilst plants that normally flower at Christmas bloomed early

False Black Widow Spider

Spotted in Farnham. Less harmful to humans than the true Black Widow, their bite can still be painful – but only the female bites!

Looking for lunch

One of Churt's buzzards is on the lookout for passing mice on a fence post near the centre of the village

You can find 40 ideas at www.churtzero.org/40-ideas

New Year Resolutions

Don't forget to make at least one resolution to reduce your household's carbon footprint.

Silver Birch Gall

A giant one on Churt Common.

This Heron is on the lookout for fish for tea at the Great Pond.

Happy Christmas to all

Photo credits:

Dawn Barrow, Liz Finneran,

Brian Johnson, Mark Lawson, David Madgwick and Myra Johnson

Please email contributions for future editions to churtenvironment@gmail.com